Striving for excellence

Internals

Szerelmey's expertise in stonework is not only applicable to external façades, but also in commercial internal areas. This is particularly the case in entrances and atriums, both to new build and refurbishment projects, where the use of prestigious materials for stone flooring and cladding, such as granites, marbles and limestones create an impressive impact for clients and their tenants.

Many considerations have to be made in the selection of the most appropriate type of material including durability, slip resistance, size and depth of stones, risk of staining and the type, depth and composition of the substrate. All of this has to be reviewed in line with the aesthetic qualities of each material short-listed. Szerelmey's experience can be invaluable in this process, guiding their clients and professional teams through the selection criteria, and in many cases providing previous test data, thus significantly reducing sometimes critical lead times.

From flooring to wall linings and ceilings, to spas and pools, to staircases. From limestone to intricate book matched marbles. From building receptions and atria to 5* hotel bathrooms and penthouses to bespoke private residences to shopping centre malls . From traditional fix to high tech raised flooring systems, lightweight stone and engineered backing structures. Think internal finishes , think stone, contact Szerelmey.
